Definition amended to include the Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act 1998. Dumping and countervailing duties relating to imports are imposed under this Act.

Definition of “duty”

“Duty” is defined to mean a duty imposed under the Customs legislation. This includes import duty imposed under the Customs Act, and dumping and countervailing duties imposed under Dumping and Countervailing Duties Act.

The definition is mainly relevant to section 29, which provides for the value of an import.

Definitions of “employee” and “employer” inserted

These terms are defined to have the same meanings as in the ITA. The definitions are relevant to sections 31 and 40.

Definition of “generally accepted accounting principles” inserted

“Generally accepted accounting principles” is defined to have the same meaning as in the ITA. Under the ITA, “generally accepted accounting principles” is defined to mean the accounting standards issued or recommended by the Fiji Institute of Accountants under the Fiji Institute of Accountants Act (Cap. 259) and subsidiary rules from time to time in force, and in regulations made under the Companies Act and published in the Gazette, and the standards or rules are approved by the CEO.

Definition inserted consequent upon the amendment to the definition of “hire purchase agreement”.

Note: The Fiji Institute of Accountants Act does not appear to expressly empower the Fiji Institute of Accountants (FIA) to issue or recommend accounting standards. However, section 6(1)(b) provides that FIA has a general power to regulate the practice of the profession of accountancy in Fiji. Does this cover the issuing or recommendation of accounting standards?

The definition of “generally accepted accounting standards” in the ITA is essentially the same definition as in section 2 of the Companies Act 2015.

Definition of “hire purchase agreement”

The definition revised to cross refer to the definition in the Consumer Credit Act.

It is also made clear that the definition applies only to finance leases of personal property.

The reference to “international financial reporting standards” changed to “generally accepted accounting principles”, which is defined to have the same meaning as under the ITA.

Definition of “input tax”
Paragraph (b) of the definition amended to align with the drafting of paragraph (c) of the section 2 definition of “output tax”. This will also allow some clarification of the drafting of section 51 (component “C” of the formula).

Definition of “local authority”

The following changes have been made:

(1) The definition has been paragraphed for greater clarity.

(2) Paragraph (a) – the reference to “municipality” changed to a “council of a municipality”. This change has been made as a “municipality” is an area. The governing body for the area is referred to as a “council”. Thus, for the definition of “local authority”, the correct reference is to the council of a municipality (and not just to the municipality).

(3) Paragraph (b) has been amended as there are two types of councils established under the iTaukei Affairs Act. Section 7 of that Act provides for the establishment of a provincial council and section 9 of that Act provides for the establishment sub-provincial council (i.e. a council for a particular area within a province).

Definition of “money”

Paragraph (c)(ii) amended to make clear that the account can be operated by any person. The main example is a bank account, but the reference to an “account” will include, for example, a customer account operated by a store.

Definition of “recipient” inserted “Recipient” is defined by reference to a supply. “Recipient” means the person to whom a supply is made. “Supply” is defined in section 2 to mean a supply of goods, a supply of services, or a supply of imported services. Consequently, “recipient” means the person to whom a supply of goods, a supply of services, or a supply of imported services has been made.

The term “recipient” is used in many sections in the Act.

Definition of “telecommunications supplier” inserted “Telecommunications services supplier” is defined to mean a person licensed in Fiji or elsewhere (such as in New Zealand or Australia) to make supplies of telecommunications services.

The definition is relevant to the place of supply rules in section 26 and the rules applicable to prepaid supplies of telecommunications services in section 39.

2, Part 2 – Regulation 5

Subsection (1)

New paragraphs (c) and (d) inserted.

Paragraph (c) treats a deposit paid or payable for a returnable container in which goods are supplied as part of the consideration for the supply. A returnable container (such as a bottle) is considered inseparable from the goods they contain. Further, it is often the case that returnable containers are not returned.
so that the supplier ends up keeping the deposit. For these reasons, the amount of the deposit is included in the consideration for the supply of the goods. The return of the deposit on return of the container is an adjustment event subject to section 47.

Paragraph (d) treats a service charge paid or payable in respect of a supply as part of the consideration for the supply. It is increasingly the case today that hotels and restaurants add on service charges to the amount charged to a customer. It was intended that these would be captured under paragraph (e) (paragraph (c) of the second Draft), but there was concern that paragraph (e) may be read down to include only Government-imposed fees and service charges.

New subsection (4) inserted

New subsection (4) provides that a discount, rebate, or other adjustment made to the price of a supply after the time of the supply is accounted for under the adjustment rules in section 46 or 47. In effect, subsection (4) acts as a “signpost” to section 46 or 47 for the treatment of post-supply price adjustments.

New subsections (5) and (6) inserted

New subsections (5) and (6) inserted providing for the treatment of deposits. New subsection (5) provides that the consideration for a supply does not include a deposit (other than a deposit on a returnable container referred to in subsection (1)(c)) paid or payable in connection with a supply until the supplier applies the deposit in payment for the supply.

Subsection (6) applies where a non-refundable deposit is forfeited. It is provided that section 36 applies to a forfeited deposit. Section 36 provides that a forfeited deposit is treated as a separate supply. The amount of the deposit is treated as a VAT-inclusive amount and the consideration for the supply is the amount of the deposit reduced by the tax fraction of the amount of the deposit.

Subsection (3) of the Second Draft

Subsection (3) of the Second Draft is really providing for a definition of “similar supply” It has been restructured as a definition subsection and relocated as new subsection (7) at the end of the section.

New subsection (6) inserted

The fundamental basis for determining the fair market value of a supply under subsections (1), (2), and (3) is the open market value of a supply between persons dealing with each other at arm’s length.

New subsection (6) provides that a supply is treated as having been made between persons dealing with each other at arm’s length if the parties to the supply, whether or not associates, have acted separately and independently in negotiating the terms of the supply.

There is an important difference between “at arm’s length” and “dealing at arm’s length”. A reference to “at arm’s length” is a reference to the relationship... between the parties. In this regard, if the test is “at arm’s length”, then associates will never satisfy the test as they are never at arm’s length. A reference to “dealing at arm’s length” is a reference to the nature of the dealing between the parties and not to the relationship between the parties. While associates can never be “at arm’s length”, they can structure their transactions so that the dealings between the associates is at arm’s length. Subsection (6) makes this clear.

<td>The conditions in subsection (1) have been redrafted to: (i) better align with the place of supply rule in section 26(1); and (ii) ensure that the reverse charge rule applies even where the supply of imported services is made to a registered person by a registered person located outside Fiji. The tax treatment of the various possibilities for supplies of imported services are summarised below.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Paragraph (a)

Paragraph (a) amended to provide that the supply of services may be made by a foreign service provider who is either registered or unregistered. Consequently, the reverse charge rule applies to the following: (i) a supply of services made by an unregistered foreign service provider to a registered person; or (ii) a supply of services made by a registered foreign service provider without a place of business in Fiji to a registered person.

New paragraph (b)

New paragraph (b) inserted requiring that a supply of services must be made to a registered person. Consequently, a supply of services made to any unregistered person is not a supply of imported services and, therefore, the reverse charge rule does not apply.

Paragraph (c) (paragraph (b) in the Second Draft)

Paragraph (c) is redrafted to require that the supply is made from a place of business outside Fiji. This means that the supply is not made in Fiji under the basic place of supply rule in section 26(1).

Paragraph (d) (paragraph (c) in the Second Draft)

Paragraph (d) is reframed to provide that, if the supply had been made from a place of business in Fiji, the supply would have been a taxable supply.

Taking account of sections 5 and 26, the following tax treatment applies to foreign-provided services:

1. Foreign-provided services by an unregistered foreign service provider to an unregistered person are not subject to VAT in Fiji.

2. Foreign-provided services by an unregistered foreign service provider to a registered person are subject to reverse charge VAT.

3. Foreign-provided services by a registered foreign service provider to an unregistered person are subject to the normal operation of the VAT with the registered foreign service provider required to account for VAT on the supply of the services.

(4) Foreign-provided services by a registered foreign service provider to a registered person are subject to the reverse charge VAT. Even though the foreign service provider is registered, it is considered more effective to collect VAT on the services through the reverse charge rule.

Subsection (6) provides that subsection (5) does not apply to taxable supplies made by a section 15(2) registered person prior to the date that the person is actually registered by the CEO. This means that the VAT on such taxable supplies is borne by the section 15(2) registered person and not their customer. This is justified on the basis that the person failed to apply for registration as required under the Act. The effect of section 24(4) is that the | Taxable supplies are treated as having been made for a VAT-inclusive amount and the formula in section 24(4) applies to determine the VAT payable on the supply.

New subsection (3) inserted

New subsection (3) provides that the reference in subsections (1) and (2) to a “reduced rate of VAT” is a reference to a rate lower than that specified in section 8(2)(b), i.e. lower than 9% as at the time of enactment.

Subsection (1)

The reference to “Subject to subsection (2)” in the introductory words of the subsection has been deleted as this was a reference to subsection (2) in the First Draft, which was deleted from the Second Draft.

Paragraph (c) amended to also require the following persons to apply for compulsory registration:

1. A person who has commenced to carry on a business as an auctioneer.
2. A person who has been appointed as a bailiff.

This is relevant to section 44, which requires an auctioneer to charge VAT on supplies made at auction regardless of whether or not the owner of the goods is registered. Section 44 applies also to a bailiff selling seized goods.

Subsection (2)

Registration threshold to be specified in the Regulations.

Subsection (3)

For consistency with subsection (1), the value of supplies of imported services made to an associate are also taken into account.

Subsection (7)

The definition of “capital asset” amended to make clear that the asset must have a useful economic life of at least 12 months.
| 22 | 14 |
|----|----|---|
| 22 | 15 |

New subsection (4) inserted

New subsection (5) provides for a 21-day period for the CEO to decide an application for registration under section 13 or 14. Subsection (5) obliges the CEO to serve the applicant with written notice of the decision within 21 days after receipt of the application. This is particularly relevant to applications for compulsory registration under section 13 as subsection (7)(a) provides that registration in this case takes effect from the second taxable period after the end of the taxable period in which the obligation to apply for registration arose.

Subsection (5) (subsection (4) in the Second Draft)

Subsection (5) amended to provide that a VAT registration certificate is to include the particulars specified in the Regulations.

Subsection (7) (subsection (6) in the Second Draft)

Subsection (6)(a) in the Second Draft provides that compulsory VAT registration takes effect from the beginning of the first taxable period after the person was required to apply for registration. This is subject to the CEO having discretion to allow compulsory VAT registration from a later date as set out in the person’s VAT registration certificate.

In the ordinary case, section 13(6) requires a person to file an application for compulsory VAT registration with the CEO within 7 days after the end of the relevant taxable period in which the person was required to apply for registration. On this basis, section 15(6)(a) of the Second Draft treats a person as registered prior to the due date for filing the registration application. For example, suppose X meets the registration threshold at the end of April. Section 13(6) requires X to file the registration application by May 7. However, section 15(6)(a) of the Second Draft treats X as registered from May 1 (i.e. before the registration application is required to be filed). This is not the right outcome.

Subsection (7)(a) (subsection (6)(a) in the Second Draft) has been amended to provide that the compulsory registration of a person takes effect from the start of the second taxable period after being required to apply for registration. In the example above, this is June 1. This is an appropriate start date given that new subsection (5) obliges the CEO to process a VAT registration application within 21 consecutive days of the application being filed.

Subsection (7) is subject to subsection (8), which applies where a compulsory application for registration is not processed by the CEO within the 21-day period under subsection (5).

Subsection (8) inserted

New subsection (8) inserted, which applies where the CEO fails to process an application made by a person in accordance with section 13 within the time specified in subsection (5). In this case, subsection (8) provides that the registration of the person cannot commence before the start of the first taxable period after the person is actually registered.

<td>17, 18, &amp; 19&lt;br&gt;Section 17 of the Second Draft has been broken down into 3 sections (sections 17, 18, and 19) to better reflect the difference between compulsory and voluntary cancellation of registration. Compulsory cancellation of registration should be based on a notification requirement where a registered person ceases to conduct a taxable activity. Based on this notification, the CEO can cancel the person’s registration. Voluntary cancellation should be based on application by a registered person. The subject matter of the three sections is as follows:&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(1) Notification of cessation of a taxable activity (section 17).&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(2) Application of voluntary cancellation of registration (section 18).&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(3) Obligations of registered person on cancellation of registration (section 19).</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>17&lt;br&gt;This section obliges a registered person to notify the CEO if they have ceased to conduct a taxable activity. In this case, the main differences between section 17 of the second draft and new section 17 are:&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(1) A person who ceases to conduct a taxable activity must notify the CEO of the cessation. The draft no longer provides for an application for cancellation from persons who have ceased to conduct a taxable activity.&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(2) The CEO is obliged to cancel the registration of a person who has lodged a notification of cessation of their taxable activity. This is subject to a discretion to suspend registration where there is a reasonable expectation that the person may recommence the taxable activity within 12 months of the notification.&lt;br&gt;&lt;br&gt;(3) Cancellation of registration takes effect from the end of the taxable period in which the person ceased to conduct their taxable activity or such later period as specified by the CEO in the notice of cancellation.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>18&lt;br&gt;This section permits a registered person whose annual value of taxable supplies made, and supplies of imported services received, does not exceed the registration threshold to apply for cancellation of registration.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
The section is largely based on section 17 of the Second Draft. The main change is new subsection (3), which applies where a person applied for registration, and was registered, based on the mistaken belief that the person was required to be registered. This is intended to apply where a person applied for registration not fully understanding that, for them, registration was optional and not compulsory. In this case, an application for cancellation of registration can be made prior to the due date for filing the person’s first VAT return after being registered. If an application under subsection (3) is not made before the due date for filing the person’s first VAT return, the two-year limitation period in subsection (2) applies.

New section inserted that provides for the treatment of excess input tax credits at the date of cancellation of registration.

Subsection (1) provides that a person whose registration is cancelled under sections 17 or 18 may apply to the CEO, in writing, for a refund of any excess credit of the person that has been carried forward under the Act. An application can be made under subsection (1) despite section 52, which provides for a 4-month carry forward period for excess credits.

Subsection (2) provides that an application made by a person under subsection (1) must be lodged with the CEO before the date on which the cancellation of the person’s registration takes effect.

Subsection (3) applies where, at the date on which the cancellation of the registration of a person takes effect, the person has an excess in put tax credit in respect of which an application for a refund has not been made in accordance with subsections (1) and (2). In this case, subsection (3) provides that the excess credit lapses and is no longer refundable to the person.

Consequently, a person who has an excess input tax credit at the time the person’s registration is being cancelled must apply for a refund of the excess credit before cancellation of their registration takes effect. Failure to do so results in a loss of the excess credit.

This section sets out the obligations of a person who has had their registration cancelled under section 17 or 18. The section is essentially section 17(8) and (9) of the Second Draft.

Subsection (1)(b)

The time for filing a final VAT return has been changed to one month after cancellation of registration to align with the normal filing rule in section 64 and also section 33(2) of the current VAT Act. This is subject to the CEO having discretion to require the filing of the final return by an earlier date, such as where the former registered person is leaving Fiji permanently.

It is made clear that the reference to raw materials is raw materials for trading stock.

The two situations where delivery or performance is likely to exceed invoice and payment are gifts and related party transactions. These are both covered in subsection (2) of the Second Draft.

Section 18(1)(c) of the current VAT Act provides that the time of delivery of goods or services is the time of supply if it occurs before the time of invoice or payment. This applies as a general rule and is not limited to gifts or related party transactions. Consequently, consistent with the current VAT Act, subsection (2) is deleted and timing rule in subsection (2) relocated as new subsection (1)(c) applicable generally (and not just to gifts and related party transactions).

| New subsections (2) and (3) inserted |
Subsections (2) and (3) apply to goods imported into a bonded warehouse but that have not been entered for home consumption. In this case, subsection (2) provides that any supply of the goods before they are entered for home consumption is to be disregarded for the purposes of the Act. This is because any value added while in the bonded warehouse will be captured in the value of the goods for import duty when the goods are eventually entered for home consumption. In the absence of this provision, such a supply may be treated as a taxable supply and, if made by a registered person, be subject to VAT under section 8(1)(a). This may result in double taxation when the goods are subsequently entered for home consumption and taxed under section 8(1)(b) as a taxable import.

“Bonded warehouse” is defined in subsection (3) to have the meaning under the Customs legislation. In the context of an import of goods, “bonded warehouse” is defined in section 2 of the Customs Act 1986 to mean a building or storage tank licensed by the Comptroller, in which goods entered to be warehoused maybe lodged, kept, or secured pending payment of duty. The definition expressly includes a customs warehouse, which is defined in section 2 of the Customs Act 1986 to mean a place appointed by the Comptroller for the deposit of uncleared goods or other goods, pending the payment of the import duty payable in respect of the goods.

Subsection (1)

Paragraph (a) amended to remove the reference to “for the purposes of customs duty”. The reference in the revised paragraph (a) is simply to the value of the goods under the Customs legislation. The customs value of goods is determined under Part 2 of Schedule 1 of the Customs Tariff Act.

The second reference to “customs duty” changed to “duty”. This is consequent upon the insertion of a definition of “duty” in section 2.

Paragraph (b) amended to change the reference to “customs duty” to “duty”. This is consequent upon the insertion of a definition of “duty” in section 2 and ensures that the value of an import includes all duties payable in respect of an import, including import duty, dumping duty, and countervailing duty.

New subsections (2) and (3) inserted

New subsections (2) and (3) inserted providing for an apportionment rule where a creditable acquisition is acquired partly to make taxable supplies and partly to make other supplies (such as exempt supplies). Subsection (2) provides that the input tax payable on such acquisitions made by a registered person during a tax period is to be apportioned based on the ratio of the value of total taxable supplies made by the person during the period to the value of total supplies made by the person during the period. This is based on section 39(2)(b)(iii) of the current VAT Act.

Subsection (3) provides for two rules of convenience. Subsection (3)(a) applies where the fraction \( \frac{B}{C} \) in new subsection (2) is 0.90 or more (i.e. where 90% or more of the value of total supplies made by a registered person during the tax period are taxable supplies). In this case, the registered person is allowed a credit for the full amount of input tax in respect of creditable acquisitions made partly to make the taxable supplies and partly to make the other supplies. This based on section 39(7)(a) of the current VAT Act, but not including the de minimis monetary amount.

Subsection (3)(b) applies where the fraction \( \frac{b}{c} \) in new subsection (2) is less than 0.10 (i.e. where less than 10% or more of the value of total supplies made by a registered person during the tax period are taxable supplies). In this case, the registered person is denied a credit for the full amount of input tax in respect of creditable acquisitions made partly to make the taxable supplies and partly to make the other supplies. This is the corollary of subsection (3)(a) and ensures that the de minimis rule operates both ways.

Subsections (2) and (3) apply only where a creditable acquisition is acquired by a registered person partly for use in making taxable supplies and partly for use in making other supplies. The general apportionment rule in subsection (1) applies where a creditable acquisition is acquired partly for use in making taxable supplies and partly for private purposes.

Subsection (4) (subsection (2) of the Second Draft)

The references to sections 46 and 47 of the second draft deleted consequent upon the deletion of section 46 (payments-basis of VAT accounting).

Subsection (6) (subsection (4) in the Second Draft)

Paragraph (c)

The reference to “recipient-created tax invoice” changed to “buyer-created tax invoice” to align with current terminology.

New paragraph (d) inserted

New paragraph (d) applies to supplies to which section 57(5) applies requiring the preparation of a buyer-created tax invoice.

New paragraph (f) inserted

New paragraph (f) inserted, which applies to an input tax credit allowed under section 48 when a bad debtor subsequently pays the amount of a debt previously written off under section 47.

New subsections (7) and (8) inserted

New subsections (7) and (8) provide for a time limit on the claiming of input tax credits. Subsection (7) applies where, for whatever reason, a registered person fails to claim an input tax credit in the VAT return for the taxable period in which the credit arises. In this case, the registered person can claim the credit in the VAT return for a subsequent taxable period but only if that taxable period is within 12 months after the taxable period in which the credit arose. In other words, there is a 12-month limit on the claiming of input tax credits. This is based on section 39(6) of the current VAT Act, but with the 3 year period reduced to 12 months.

Subsection (8) provides that subsection (7) does not prevent an input tax credit being allowed in an amended assessment made by the CEO other than an amended assessment made under section 12 of the Tax Administration Act.
Subsection (8) applies where the CEO makes an amended assessment on his or her own motion (i.e., where an adjustment is made to a registered person’s VAT liability for a taxable period, such as a result of an audit). The exclusion of an amended assessment made under section 12 of the Tax Administration Act means that unclaimed input tax credits cannot be the subject of an amended return.

<td>New paragraph (d) inserted denying an input tax credit in respect of a creditable acquisition by a registered person of membership for any person of a club, association, or society of a sporting, social, or recreational nature.</td>

Subsection (2) deleted

Subsection (2) deleted as there is a conflict between this subsection, which provides that the credit-denial rule does not apply to an employee benefit on which an employee is required to charge VAT and section 40(2), which provides that an employee benefit that is a taxable supply by an employer to an employee has a nil value if the employer is denied an input tax credit for the acquisition of the benefit. Either subsection (2) or section 40(2) can apply, but not both.

Subsection (2) is deleted. This means that the credit-denial rule can apply to employee benefits and then section 40 applies to provide that no VAT is payable on the supply of an employee benefit in relation to which the employer was denied an input tax credit for the acquisition of the benefit. For some employee benefits (particularly benefits provided to the workforce generally), it will be simpler to deny the input tax credit than tax supplies to individual employees.

New subsection (2) inserted

New subsection (2) provides that a registered person who does not carry on a taxable activity through a fixed place of business in Fiji is not entitled to any input tax credits in relation to the making of taxable supplies. This means that a foreign service provider is subject to VAT on a registration-only basis.

Subsection (3) amended so that it applies to any registered person who receives second hand goods as a trade-in and not limited to a second-hand goods supplier. The main example of where goods are traded-in as part payment for a supply is in the car sector. The acceptance of a trade-in is not limited to used car dealers. In particular, a supplier of new cars may accept a trade-in of a used car by a customer as part payment for the new car.

Subsection (4)

Subsection (4) amended to provide that the records to be kept by a second-hand goods supplier are to be specified in the Regulations.

Subsection (5)

Definition of “second-hand goods supplier” amended by changing “principally involves” to “includes”. This ensures that the section can apply to any registered person whose taxable activity involves the supply of second-hand goods whether or not that is the principal business of the person. For example, a seller of new cars may accept a used car as a trade-in as part payment of the price of a new car. In this case, the seller’s business will involve the resale of traded-in cars, but that may not be the seller’s principal business.

The references to “delivery” in paragraphs (b) and (c) changed to the purchaser taking “possession” of the goods. There was some confusion with the reference to “delivery” as it may mean either: (i) making available for collection; or (ii) physically delivered to the purchaser.

Paragraph (b) amended to provide that the purchaser takes possession of the goods after full payment is made for the goods.

Paragraph (c) amended to refer to ownership of the goods passing when the purchaser takes possession of the goods.

<td>New section inserted that provides for the VAT treatment of forfeited deposits.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Subsection (1) applies where a supplier has received a deposit in connection with a supply of goods or services and the deposit is forfeited to the supplier. In this case, the forfeiture of the deposit is treated as a separate supply of services by the supplier at the time of forfeiture of the deposit. Subsection (4) provides that the section does not apply to a deposit for a returnable container included in the consideration for a supply of the goods in the container.

Subsection (2) provides that a supply of services under subsection (1) has the same character as the supply of goods or services (referred to as the “underlying supply”) to which the forfeited deposit relates. Consequently, if the underlying supply to which the forfeited deposit relates is a taxable supply, the subsection (1) supply of services is treated as a taxable supply. Similarly, if the underlying supply is an exempt or zero-rated supply, the subsection (1) supply of services is also an exempt or zero-rated supply (as the case may be).

Subsection (3) provides for the value of a subsection (1) supply of services. Where the supplier is a registered person at the time of forfeiture of the deposit, the value of the supply is the forfeited amount reduced by an amount equal to the forfeited amount multiplied by the tax fraction. This assumes that the forfeited amount is a VAT-inclusive amount.

Where the supplier is not a registered person, the value of the supply is the forfeited deposit. There is no adjustment for VAT because the seller is not a registered person. However, the valuation rule may be relevant in determining whether the seller satisfies the registration threshold.

19(10) 38 Subsection (3)

Subsection (3) broken down into two sections to avoid hanging text. There is no change in meaning

The reference to “price of” in subsection (4) changed to “consideration for” as “consideration” is the term used in the Act (not price).

- 39 The references to “telecommunications service provider” changed to “telecommunication service supplier”.

Subsection (2)

There was concern that the effect of subsection (2) was that a supply between telecommunications service suppliers was not taxed. That is not the intention; rather, the intention is that the normal operation of the Act applies to such supplies. Subsection (2) amended to explicitly provide for this.

3(10) 40 Heading

Heading changed to “General Insurance” to better reflect the scope of the section.

Subsections (1), (2), (4), (5), and (7)

For greater clarity, “contract of insurance” has been changed to “general insurance contract”.

Subsection (2)

Paragraph (b) amended to align with the enactment of the Accident Compensation Act 2017.

Subsection (3)

Subsection (3) amended to provide also that the value of the supply is the amount received reduced by the tax fraction of that amount. This assumes that an insurance pay-out is a VAT-inclusive amount.

Subsection (9)

Definition of “contract of insurance” changed to a definition of “general insurance contract”. “General insurance contract” is defined to mean a contract of insurance entered into in the course conducting a general insurance business, but does not include a health insurance contract.

Definition of “general insurance business” inserted. “General insurance business” is defined to have the meaning under the Insurance Act. Under section 2 of the Insurance Act, “general insurance business” is defined to mean an insurance business of any class or classes other than life insurance business.

Taking account of the definitions of “general insurance business” and “general insurance contract”, a general insurance contract is any contract of insurance other than a contract of life insurance or health insurance.

Definitions of “non-resident person” and “resident person” inserted cross referring to the definitions in the ITA.

(2) If the fair market value of a supply (referred to as the “actual supply”) cannot be determined under subsection (1), the fair market value of the supply is the consideration that a similar supply would fetch in an ordinary open market transaction freely made at the time of the actual supply between persons dealing with each other at arm’s length, adjusted to take account of the differences between the similar supply and the actual supply.

(3) If the fair market value of a supply cannot be determined under subsection (1) or (2), the fair market value is the amount that is an objective approximation of the consideration that the supply would fetch in an ordinary open market transaction freely made at the time of the supply between persons dealing with each other at arm’s length as determined by the CEO based on generally accepted principles of valuation.

(4) If a provision of this Act requires the fair market value to be determined at a particular time for particular goods or services, the fair market value is determined by reference to the fair market value of a supply of those goods or services as determined under this section at that time.

(5) For the purposes of this section, a supply is treated as having been made between persons dealing with each other at arm’s length if the parties to the supply, whether or not associates, have acted separately and independently in negotiating the terms of the supply.

(6) In this section, “similar supply”, in relation to an actual supply, means a supply that is the same as, or closely resembles, the actual supply taking into account the character, quality, quantity, functionality, materials, or reputation of the goods or services supplied in the actual supply.

(a) that part of the taxable activity conducted outside Fiji is treated as a taxable activity conducted by a person (referred to as the “overseas person”) separate from the person (referred to as the “Fiji person”) conducting the taxable activity in Fiji;

(b) the Fiji person and the overseas person are treated as associates;

(c) the overseas person is not a registered person; and

(d) an internal provision of services by the overseas person to the Fiji person is treated as a supply of services made from a place of business outside Fiji in the course or furtherance of a taxable activity conducted by the overseas person outside Fiji.

Taxable activity

6.—(1) Subject to subsection (3), the following are a taxable activity for the purposes of this Act—

(2) An application made by a person under subsection (2) must be lodged with the CEO before the date on which the cancellation of the person’s registration takes effect.

(3) If, at the date on which the cancellation of the registration of a person takes effect, the person has an excess input tax credit in respect of which an application for a refund has not been made in accordance with subsections (1) and (2), the excess credit lapses and is no longer refundable to the person.

Obligations of person on cancellation of registration

20.—(1) If a person’s VAT registration is cancelled under section 17 or 18, the person must—

(a) immediately cease to hold out that the person is a registered person, including on any documentation used by the person;

(c) immediately return the person’s VAT registration certificate, and any official copies of the certificate, to the CEO.

(2) The obligations and liabilities of a person under this Act, including the lodging of VAT returns and payment of VAT, in respect of anything done or omitted to be done by that person while being a registered person is not affected by cancellation of the person’s registration.

Deemed taxable supply on cancellation of registration

21.—(1) A person whose VAT registration is cancelled under section 17 or 18 is treated as having made a taxable supply of trading stock (including raw materials for trading stock) on hand at the time the person’s registration is cancelled but only if the person was allowed an input tax credit on acquisition or import of the trading stock or on acquisition or import of goods that have been subsumed into that trading stock.

(2) A taxable supply of trading stock under subsection (1) is treated as having been made by the person immediately before cancellation of the person’s registration and the person is treated as having received, at that time, an amount of output tax equal to the amount of the input tax credit allowed to the person in respect of the acquisition or import of the trading stock or of goods that have been subsumed into the trading stock.

PART 4—GENERAL RULES RELATING TO SUPPLIES

Mixed supplies

22.—(1) A supply of goods that is incidental to a supply of services is treated as part of the supply of services.
(2) A supply of services that is incidental to a supply of goods is treated as part of the supply of goods.

(3) A supply of services is treated as part of an import of goods where the value of the supply is included in the value of the import under section 29(1)(a).

(4) Subject to subsections (1) and (2), if a supply is both a supply of goods and a supply of services, the CEO may determine on any reasonable basis the extent to which the supply is treated as a supply of goods or a supply of services.

(5) Subsection (6) applies to a supply that consists of all or some of the following elements:

(a) a supply that is charged with consumption tax at a positive rate;

(b) a zero-rated supply;

(c) an exempt supply.

(6) Subject to subsection (7), each element of a supply referred to in subsection (6) is treated as a separate supply.

(7) If a supply of goods under a hire purchase agreement involves a credit charge that is specified as a separate charge and disclosed to the recipient of the supply, the supply is treated as two supplies being a supply of goods and a supply of financial services.

Time of supply

23.---(1) Subject to this Act, a supply occurs on the earlier of—

(a) the date on which the invoice for the supply is issued;

(b) the date on which any payment (including a part payment) for the supply is made; or

(c) the date on which—

(i) for a supply of goods, the goods are delivered or made available; or

(ii) for a supply of services or a supply of imported services, the performance of the services is complete.

(2) A supply of goods by means of any machine, meter, or other device operated by a coin, note, or token occurs on the date that any such coin, note, or token is taken from the machine, meter, or other device by or on behalf of the supplier.

(3) A periodic supply—

(a) is treated as a series of separate, successive supplies corresponding to the successive parts of the period of the lease or agreement, or as determined by law, as the case may be; and
(b) each successive supply is treated as occurring on the earlier of the date on which the payment for that successive supply is due or received.

(4) In this section, “periodic supply” means—

(a) a supply of goods under a hire purchase agreement; or

(b) a supply of services—

(i) by way of a lease of goods (other than a lease covered by paragraph (a)); or

(ii) supplied progressively under an agreement or law that provides for periodic payments.

Value of a supply

24.—(1) Subject to this section, the value of a supply is the consideration for the supply.

(2) The value of a supply is the fair market value of the supply determined at the time of the supply if—

(a) the supply is made by a person to an associate for a price that is less than the fair market value of the supply (including a supply made for no consideration); and

(b) the recipient is not entitled to an input tax credit for the whole of the input tax payable in respect of the supply.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (2), the value of a supply for no consideration is zero.

(4) If a registered person makes a taxable supply without a separate amount being identified as VAT, the value of the supply is calculated according to the following formula—

\[ A - (A \times B) \]

where—

A is the total amount charged for the supply; and

B is the tax fraction.

(5) If subsection (4) applies to a taxable supply made by a registered person to another registered person, the input tax payable by the registered person receiving the supply is calculated based on the value of the supply determined under subsection (4).

Supply of goods in Fiji

25.—A supply of goods occurs in Fiji if:
(a) for a supply of goods that involves transportation, the goods are in Fiji when the transportation commences; or

(b) for any other supply, the goods are made available in Fiji by the supplier.

Supply of services in Fiji

26.—(1) Subject to subsection (2) and section 27, a supply of services occurs in Fiji if the place of business of the supplier from which the services are supplied is in Fiji.

(2) Despite subsection (1), a supply of services by a person who does not have a place of business in Fiji occurs in Fiji if the recipient of the supply is not a registered person and—

(a) the services are physically performed in Fiji by a person who is in Fiji at the time of the supply;

(b) the services are remote services supplied to a resident of Fiji; or

(c) the services are telecommunication services and a person physically in Fiji initiates the supply from a telecommunications supplier whether on the person’s own behalf or on behalf of another person, other than a supply initiated by—

(i) a supplier of telecommunications services; or

(ii) a person who is global roaming while temporarily in Fiji.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(b) and subject to subsection (4), a recipient of a supply of remote services is treated as a resident of Fiji if at least two of the following factors support the conclusion that the person is a resident of Fiji—

(a) the recipient’s billing address;

(b) the internet protocol address of the device used by the recipient or another geolocation method;

(c) the recipient’s bank details, including the account the recipient uses for payment or the billing address held by the bank;

(d) the mobile country code of the international mobile subscriber identity stored on the subscriber identity module card used by the recipient;

(e) the location of the recipient’s fixed land line through which the service is supplied to the recipient;

(f) any other commercially relevant information.

(4) If there are two factors on the list in subsection (3) supporting that the recipient is a resident of Fiji and two factors supporting residence in another country, the supplier must determine the recipient’s residence based on the factors that, in the circumstances, are the most reliable indicators of the recipient’s residence.

(5) Having established that the recipient of a supply is a resident of Fiji under subsection (3), a supplier must treat the recipient as not being a registered person unless the recipient notifies the supplier, in writing, that they are a registered person and provides the supplier with a certified copy of their VAT registration certificate.

(6) For the purposes of subsection (2)(c), the person who initiates a supply of telecommunications services is the person who is identified by the supplier of the telecommunication services as the person who controls the commencement of the supply.

(7) If a supplier of telecommunications services is not able to identify the person who controlled the commencement of a supply of telecommunications services under subsection (6), the person who is treated as initiating the supply is the person who is identified by the supplier as —

(a) the person who pays for the supply;

(b) the person who contracts for the supply; or

(c) the person to whom the invoice for the supply is sent.

(8) If the supplier identifies more than one person as initiating the supply under subsection (7), the person who is treated as initiating the supply is the person who appears highest in the list in that subsection.

Supply of remote services through electronic marketplace

27.—(1) This section applies if the following conditions are satisfied—

(a) a supplier (referred to as the “underlying supplier”) makes a supply of remote services through an electronic marketplace;

(b) the electronic marketplace is operated by a person who does not have a place of business in Fiji and who—

(i) authorises the charge to the recipient of the supply;

(ii) authorises the delivery of the supply to the recipient of the supply; or

(iii) sets the terms and conditions under which the supply is made; and

(c) the recipient of the supply is a resident of Fiji as determined under section 26(3) and is not a registered person.

(2) Where this section applies and subject to subsection (3), section 26(2) applies on the basis that the operator of the electronic marketplace is treated as having made the supply of remote services in the course or furtherance of a taxable activity conducted by the operator.
(3) This section does not apply when the underlying supplier and the operator of the marketplace have agreed in writing that the underlying supplier is liable for the payment of VAT on taxable supplies made through the electronic marketplace.

(4) In this section, “electronic marketplace” means a website, internet portal, gateway, store, distribution platform, or other similar platform that is operated electronically through which an underlying supplier makes a supply of remote services electronically through another person (the operator of the marketplace) to a third person (the recipient), but does not include a marketplace that solely processes payments.

(2) The input tax credit allowed to a registered person for creditable acquisitions made by the person during a taxable period partly to make taxable supplies and partly to make other supplies is calculated according to the following formula—

where—

A is the total amount of input tax payable in respect of creditable acquisitions made by the registered person during the taxable period partly to make taxable supplies and partly to make other supplies;

B is the total value of taxable supplies made by the registered person during the taxable period; and

C is the total value of all supplies made by the registered person during the taxable period.

(3) Where the fraction \( \frac{B}{C} \) in subsection (2) is

(a) 0.90 or more, the registered person is allowed a credit for the total amount of input tax in respect of creditable acquisitions referred to in that subsection; or

(b) less than 0.10, the registered person is not allowed a credit for any input tax in respect of creditable acquisitions referred to in that subsection.

(4) Subject to subsection (5), an input tax credit is allowed in the taxable period in which the supply or import to which the creditable acquisition relates occurred.

(5) If, at the time a registered person files a VAT return for a taxable period in which an input tax credit would otherwise be allowable under this Act, the person does not hold the documentation referred to in subsection (6), the input tax credit is not allowed in that taxable period but instead is allowed in the first taxable period in which the person holds the required documentation.

(6) The documentation required for the purposes of subsection (5) is the following—

(a) for a creditable acquisition that is a taxable import, a bill of entry or other document required under the Customs legislation for the import;

(b) for a creditable acquisition that is a taxable supply, the tax invoice for the taxable supply to which the acquisition relates;

(7) If, for whatever reason, a registered person fails to claim an input tax credit in the VAT return for the taxable period in which the credit arises, the registered person can claim the credit in the VAT return for a subsequent taxable period but only if that taxable period is within 12 months after the taxable period in which the credit arose.

(8) Nothing in subsection (7) prevents an input tax credit being allowed in an amended assessment made by the CEO other than an amended assessment made under section 12 of the Tax Administration Act.

Denial of an input tax credit

31.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), a registered person is not allowed an input tax credit under this Act for input tax payable in respect of the following—

(c) allowed an input tax credit for the input tax treated as having been paid under paragraph (b) in the taxable period in which the second-hand goods supplier makes the supply referred to in subsection (1)(d).

(3) If a supplier receives second-hand goods (referred to as “traded-in goods”) as part payment for a supply that the supplier makes to a person who is not registered, the fair market value of the traded-in goods used to determine the price for the supply must be the same as the fair market value used to determine the price paid by the supplier to acquire the traded-in goods.

(2) If a lay-by agreement is cancelled and the supplier retains any amount paid by the purchaser or recovers any amount owing by the purchaser under the agreement, the cancellation of the agreement is treated as a supply of services by the supplier at the time of cancellation of the agreement.

(3) The value of the supply under subsection (2) is—

(a) for a supplier who is a registered person at the time of cancellation, the amount retained or recovered by the seller reduced by an amount equal to the amount retained or recovered multiplied by the tax fraction; or

(a) the acquisition by the intermediary is treated as if it were not an acquisition; and

(b) the supply by the intermediary is treated as if it were not a supply.

(6) A creditor who is not a registered person but who is required to pay VAT by operation of subsection (1) must file a return and pay the VAT at such time and manner as may be prescribed in the regulations.

PART 8—ADJUSTMENTS

Adjustment event resulting in VAT being under-charged

46.—(1) This section applies where—

(a) a registered person has made a supply;

(b) an adjustment event has occurred in relation to the supply; and

(c) as a result of the occurrence of the adjustment event, the correct amount of VAT payable in respect of the supply exceeds the VAT that the registered person actually accounted for to the CEO in respect of the supply.

(2) If this section applies, the excess referred to in subsection (1)(c) is treated as output tax of the supplier for the taxable period in which the event occurred.

(3) If the recipient of a supply to which this section applies is a registered person and the supplier has provided the recipient with an original tax invoice for the supply—

(a) the supplier must provide the recipient with a debit note specifying the additional VAT payable in respect of the supply; and

(b) the additional VAT specified in the debit note is treated as input tax of the recipient for the taxable period in which the recipient received the debit note.

Adjustment event resulting in VAT being over-charged

47.—(1) This section applies where—

(a) a registered person has made a supply;

(b) an adjustment event has occurred in relation to the supply; and
(c) as a result of the occurrence of the adjustment event, the VAT actually accounted for to the CEO by the supplier exceeds the correct amount of VAT payable in respect of the supply.

(2) Subject to subsection (4), if this section applies, the excess referred to in subsection (1)(c) is treated as input tax of the supplier for the taxable period in which the event occurred.

(3) If the recipient of a supply to which this section applies is a registered person and the supplier has provided the recipient with an original tax invoice for the supply—

(a) supplier must provide the recipient with a credit note specifying the amount by which the VAT payable in respect of the supply is reduced; and

(b) the amount referred to in paragraph (a) is treated as input tax of the recipient for the taxable period in which the recipient received the credit note.

(4) If the recipient of a supply to which subsection (2) applies is not a registered person, the supplier is not allowed a credit for the input tax referred to in that subsection until the supplier has repaid the excess VAT to the recipient of the supply in cash or as a credit against any amount owing to the supplier by the recipient.

Adjustment for bad debts

48.—(1) Subject to subsection (3), if a registered person has accounted to the CEO for output tax payable on a taxable supply made by the person and the whole or a part of the consideration for the supply is subsequently treated in the accounts of the person as a bad debt, the person is allowed an input tax credit for the amount of output tax accounted for to the CEO in respect of the supply that corresponds to the amount of the debt treated as bad.

(2) An input tax credit under subsection (1) arises on the later of—

(a) the date on which the bad debt was written off in the accounts of the registered person; or

(b) 12 months after the end of the taxable period in which the registered person accounted for output tax to the CEO in respect of the supply.

(3) If the recipient of a taxable supply to which subsection (1) applies is a registered person that is still in existence at the time the input tax credit arises under subsection (2), the input tax credit is allowed only if the supplier issues a credit note to the recipient specifying the amount of the VAT that relates to the bad debt calculated in accordance with subsection (1).

(4) The recipient of a taxable supply issued with a credit note under subsection (3) must treat the amount of VAT specified in the credit note as output tax payable by the recipient in the taxable period in which the credit note was received to the extent that the recipient claimed an input tax credit for the VAT referred to in the credit note.

Bad debt recovered
49.—(1) If an amount in respect of which an input tax credit has been allowed in accordance with subsection (1) is, at any time, wholly or partly recovered by the registered person, the registered person is treated as having charged output tax in respect of a taxable supply made by the person during the taxable period in which the bad debt is wholly or partly recovered, being an amount of output tax calculated according to the following formula—

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where—

$A$ is the amount allowed as a credit under section 47(1);

$B$ is the amount of the bad debt recovered; and

$C$ is the amount of the bad debt written off.

(2) Subsection (3) applies if the following conditions are satisfied—

(a) section 47 has applied in respect of a taxable supply (referred to as the “original taxable supply”);

(b) subsequently, subsection (1) applies to an amount that the supplier of the original taxable supply has recovered from the recipient of the original taxable supply; and

(c) the recipient of the original taxable supply was a registered person at the time of the original taxable supply and at the time of the deemed taxable supply under paragraph (b).

(3) Where the conditions in subsection (2) are satisfied:

(a) the supplier must issue a debit note to the recipient stating the amount of output tax referred to subsection (1); and

(b) the recipient is allowed an input tax credit for that amount to the extent that the original taxable supply was used by the recipient to make taxable supplies in the taxable period in which the recipient receives the debit note referred to in paragraph (a).

PART 9—CALCULATION OF NET VAT PAYABLE

Taxable Period

50.—(1) The taxable period of a registered person is—

(a) for a Category A registered person, the period of 1 month ending on the last day of each month of a calendar year; or
(b) for a Category B registered person, the period of 3 months ending on the last day of any month in a calendar year as determined by the CEO.

(2) The following registered persons are a Category A registered person—

(a) a person to whom section 13(1)(c) applies; and

(c) any other registered person who is not a Category B registered person under
subsection (3).

(3) A registered person is a Category B registered person if—

(a) the CEO is satisfied that—

(i) the total value of the taxable supplies made by, and supplies of imported services made to, the person in the period of 12 months ending on the last day of any month did not exceed $300,000; or

(ii) there are reasonable grounds to believe that the total value of taxable supplies to be made by, and supplies of imported services to be made to, the person will not exceed $300,000 in the period of 12 months beginning on the first day of any month; and

(b) the CEO has notified the person, in writing, that the person is a Category B registered person.

(4) Section 13(3), (4), and (5) apply, with the necessary changes made, in determining the total value of taxable supplies made by, and supplies of imported services made to, a person for the purposes of this section.

(5) A Category B registered person must immediately notify the CEO if they no longer satisfy subsection (3)(a).

(6) The CEO, either on notification under subsection (5), or on his or her own motion, may direct, by notice in writing, that a Category B registered person is changed to a Category A registered person with effect from the day following the end of the taxable period during which the direction was made by the CEO and subject to such conditions as the CEO may specify in the notice of change.

(7) The CEO may, by notice in writing, require a Category B registered person to be a Category A registered person if the person has regularly failed to comply their obligations under this Act.

Net VAT payable for a taxable period

51.—The net VAT payable by a registered person for a taxable period is calculated according to the following formula—

\[(A + B) - C\]
where—

A is the total of the following amounts—

(a) the total amount of output tax receivable in respect of taxable supplies made by the person during the taxable period; and

(b) the total amount treated as output tax of the person for the period;

B is the total VAT that the registered person is liable for under section 8(1)(c) and (8) in respect of supplies of imported services made to the person during the taxable period; and

C is the total of the following amounts:

(a) the total amount of input tax payable in respect of creditable acquisitions made by the person during the taxable period for which an input tax credit is allowed; and

(b) total input tax credit allowed to the person for the taxable period under sections 32(1), 34(2)(c), 37(5), 40(4), 46(3), 47(2), 48(2), 49(3), and 52(1).

PART 10—REFUNDS

Carry forward of excess input tax

52.—(1) Subject to subsections (3) and (4), and sections 53 and 54, if, for any taxable period of a registered person, component “C” of the formula in section 51 exceeds component “(A + B)” of the formula for the period, the excess is carried forward and allowed to the person as an input tax credit in the next following taxable period and any amount of the excess not credited in that period is carried forward and allowed as an input tax credit in the next following taxable period, and so on until the excess has been fully credited.

(2) If a registered person has an excess under subsection (1) carried forward under this section for more than one taxable period, the excess of the earliest taxable period is allowed first.

(3) Despite subsection (1), if an excess amount for a Category “A” registered person for a taxable period has not been fully credited after being carried forward for 4 taxable periods, the registered person may apply to the CEO, in the approved form, for a refund of the amount of the uncredited excess.

(4) Despite subsection (1), if an excess amount for a Category “B” registered person for a taxable period has not been fully credited after being carried forward for 2 taxable periods, the registered person may apply to the CEO, in the approved form, for a refund of the amount of the uncredited excess.
(5) If a registered person has made an application under subsection (3) or (4) and the CEO is satisfied that a refund is due to the person, the CEO must refund the amount within 45 days after the person lodged the refund application.

Refund of excess input tax credit without carry forward

53.—If the excess of a registered person referred to in subsection (1) is due to the person making zero-rated supplies as a regular feature of the taxable activity of the person, the CEO must, upon written application by the person, in the approved form, refund the excess within 45 days after the person lodged the refund application.

Time limit for an application for a refund of excess input tax

54.—(1) An application for a refund of excess input tax under this section must be made—

(a) for a refund under section 51(3), within 2 years after the end of the fourth taxable period;

(b) for a refund under section 51(4), within 2 years after the end of the second taxable period; or

(c) for a refund under section 52, within 2 years after the date of filing of the VAT return for the taxable period to which the excess relates.

(2) If an application for a refund of excess input tax is not made within the relevant time limit specified in subsection (1), the amount of the uncredited input tax is reduced to zero.

Refunds for non-profit organisations, diplomatic missions, foreign governments and international organisations

55.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), the CEO may, on application, grant of a refund of part or all the VAT paid in relation to a taxable supply made to—

(5) After the refund application form has been endorsed by the proper Customs officer—
